Excerpt: .sum of three dollars and thirty cents, and is a sufficient averment of the manner of making the assessment of the property. In such cases it is not necessary to aver the several statutory steps required to create a legal and valid assessment. The facts of such an assessment are sufficiently removed in their nature from mere conclusions of law to admit of their being averred without specifying what acts were done, or by what officer. 5. The taxes involved in this suit are for the year 1890. After they were levied and assessed the act of 1891 (Chapter 4039, laws of Florida) was enacted. Section 2 of this act provides that the assessments and levies of taxes as made and entered upon the several assessment rolls of said city of Jacksonville for the years 1887, 1888, 1889 and 1890, severally, are hereby legalized and confirmed; Held, That the act in question legalized and validated the assessment of such taxes which otherwise under the facts appearing in the pleadings in this case would have been irregular and invalid: also held, that it is not shown that said validating act violates any constitutional principle. 6. The object of the act establishing the municipality of Jacksonville (Chapter 3775 laws of Florida) in requiring a return nullum bona upon a distress warrant was that exhaustion of personal property might thereby be shown and proper ground be laid for proceeding to enforce the lien upon real estate. Where...
